

I am a user of the morse code on the amateur bands, but I feel that if the rest of the world is saying remove the morse code requirement for HF operation by amateurs, then we should follow their lead. If a person wants to use morse code, they will learn it.

I do not think that the morse code should be a condition to keep people from enjoying the hobby or keep them from being a much needed communicator, during global or world wide communications emergencies.
